

The Seven Principles of Unitarian Universalism

We covenant to affirm and promote:

- The inherent worth and dignity of every person;
- Justice, equity and compassion in human relations;
- Acceptance of one another and encouragement to spiritual growth in our congregations;
- A free and responsible search for truth and meaning;
- The right of conscience and the use of the democratic process within our congregations and in society at large;
- The goal of world community with peace, liberty, and justice for all;
- Respect for the interdependent web of all existence of which we are a part.

A whole new version of UU values has been proposed, as represented in the graphic below.

“Reasoning helps us to refine our emotions and emotions help us to evaluate and validate our reasoning. In order to see this more clearly, we need to see how both our reasoning and our emotions are means to understand the world around us, but either one by itself is incomplete.”

~ Aristotle (paraphrased)
